AUVSI Unmanned Systems—Defense. Protection. Security. (USDPS) is the most comprehensive military- and federal agency-focused event in the unmanned systems industry. It is the only event that brings together military leadership and defense experts to dig into how unmanned and autonomous systems are changing the landscape of military and intelligence operations and what that means for procurement, technology development and inter-agency collaboration.

If you are looking to connect with top-line decision makers from military and government agencies like the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA), Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and the National Security Agency (NSA), USDPS is the place for you.
